

Praying Through This Week 9th May 2022

The Ten Commandments

Just as a loving parent lays down ground rules for his child to follow to lead a safe and successful life, God the Father gave us the Ten Commandments to help us lead our best lives with regard to our relationship with Him and our relationship with each other.

Since the Garden of Eden, man has rebelled against God. To help free humanity from this propensity to sin and help each of us to lead better lives, God handed down the Ten Commandments as a code of moral laws for us to live by.

The Ten Commandments are not an onerous set of rules we should follow out of fear or guilt (although the fear of the Lord, played a big part when they were originally written). Rather, the Commandments serve as signposts that point us to the straight and narrow path while showing us our need for a Saviour when we inevitably stray from that path.

Keeping the commandments is an expression of our love for God, that we place his rules above all others. We pray that in these modern and very difficult times, we can still see the importance of these laws, and continue to strive to live by them.

Vicky

Praying Through This Week 9th May 2022

The Ten Commandments

Just as a loving parent lays down ground rules for his child to follow to lead a safe and successful life, God the Father gave us the Ten Commandments to help us lead our best lives with regard to our relationship with Him and our relationship with each other.

Since the Garden of Eden, man has rebelled against God. To help free humanity from this propensity to sin and help each of us to lead better lives, God handed down the Ten Commandments as a code of moral laws for us to live by.

The Ten Commandments are not an onerous set of rules we should follow out of fear or guilt (although the fear of the Lord, played a big part when they were originally written). Rather, the Commandments serve as signposts that point us to the straight and narrow path while showing us our need for a Saviour when we inevitably stray from that path.

Keeping the commandments is an expression of our love for God, that we place his rules above all others. We pray that in these modern and very difficult times, we can still see the importance of these laws, and continue to strive to live by them. Vicky