

“For as the days of Noah were, so will be the coming of the Son of Man”
(Matthew 24:37)

Our “warning” from St. Matthew’s Gospel – is to be prepared, ready to welcome and meet Jesus when He comes.

As we enter into Advent, could we each reflect now on how we are going to do that, might it help to:

- ❖ Reflect on and pray about the year that is past – the things we have done for the Lord and each other, and the things we have failed to do. Perhaps a prayer of regret, asking for forgiveness?
- ❖ Reflect on, praise and give thanks for those moments when we knew Jesus was with us, giving us peace, courage, sureness, love.
- ❖ Think of the year that is coming, what it might mean for each of us, the hopes and good things we are longing for God to do in our lives....the opportunities for loving, serving Jesus, each other our Communities...a prayer for open, listening hearts perhaps?

As we enter into Advent, is this the moment to give everything to God in prayer?
Pat.

“For as the days of Noah were, so will be the coming of the Son of Man” (Matthew 24:37)

Our “warning” from St. Matthew’s Gospel – is to be prepared, ready to welcome and meet Jesus when He comes.

As we enter into Advent, could we each reflect now on how we are going to do that, might it help to:

- ❖ Reflect on and pray about the year that is past – the things we have done for the Lord and each other, and the things we have failed to do. Perhaps a prayer of regret, asking for forgiveness?
- ❖ Reflect on, praise and give thanks for those moments when we knew Jesus was with us, giving us peace, courage, sureness, love.
- ❖ Think of the year that is coming, what it might mean for each of us, the hopes and good things we are longing for God to do in our lives....the opportunities for loving, serving Jesus, each other our Communities...a prayer for open, listening hearts perhaps?

As we enter into Advent, is this the moment to give everything to God in prayer? Pat.