Proverbs

“A word aptly spoken is like apples of gold in settings of silver.”

(Proverbs 25:11)

What does this image convey to us? Something valuable...

precious ... beautiful ... treasured...?

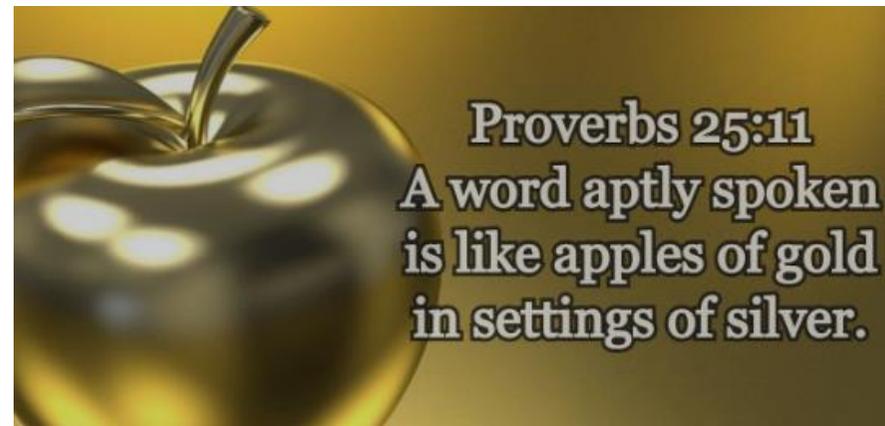

Do we measure our words in this way? The right word given at the right time can be so enriching - encouraging and uplifting us: maybe sometimes challenging for us. Can we recollect, with gratitude, the ‘apt’ words spoken to us? How did they bless us? But what about the words we speak to others ...?

Heavenly Father, help us to be alert to your promptings so that we might know the ‘apt’ words to speak, words that will affirm and build up and are pleasing to you.
