

Praying through the week 13th October 2025
Rahab – Doing the Right Thing

“By faith the prostitute Rahab, because she welcomed the spies, was not killed with those who were disobedient.” (Hebrews 11:31)

Who was Rahab in the Bible? A Canaanite prostitute, Rahab was not someone you’d expect to be cast as a biblical hero. But when Rahab showed mercy to others—even though she had not received much mercy in her own life—she discovered that God was already loving her and showing mercy to her. God would ultimately weave the story of Rahab’s faithful courage into the family tree of Jesus himself.

The story of Rahab describes one of Israel’s early saviours, a woman, a foreigner, a Canaanite. Prostitution was her stigma, but she turned out to be smarter than the king himself. Considered among the lowest by society, she acted with the greatest of bravery.

At a time when much is assumed about people from their nationality, colour, gender or social position, when these aspects often effect how we interact with people, let us try and remember this important point that God is making. Anyone with faith can do the extraordinary, it is not only for the wealthy, the clever, the strong. God meets us where we are and never assumes. May we strive to do the same.

Vicky

Praying through the week 13th October 2025
Rahab – Doing the Right Thing

“By faith the prostitute Rahab, because she welcomed the spies, was not killed with those who were disobedient.” (Hebrews 11:31)

Who was Rahab in the Bible? A Canaanite prostitute, Rahab was not someone you’d expect to be cast as a biblical hero. But when Rahab showed mercy to others—even though she had not received much mercy in her own life—she discovered that God was already loving her and showing mercy to her. God would ultimately weave the story of Rahab’s faithful courage into the family tree of Jesus himself.

The story of Rahab describes one of Israel’s early saviours, a woman, a foreigner, a Canaanite. Prostitution was her stigma, but she turned out to be smarter than the king himself. Considered among the lowest by society, she acted with the greatest of bravery.

At a time when much is assumed about people from their nationality, colour, gender or social position, when these aspects often effect how we interact with people, let us try and remember this important point that God is making. Anyone with faith can do the extraordinary, it is not only for the wealthy, the clever, the strong. God meets us where we are and never assumes. May we strive to do the same.

Vicky